For more than 40 years DTCC, through its subsidiaries, has provided post-trade processing services that mitigate risk, reduce costs, increase transparency and promote greater market efficiency. Today, we process trillions of dollars of securities transactions each day and more than $1.6 quadrillion annually – serving as the centralized clearinghouse for the U.S. capital markets and operating the first and only global trade repository for derivatives. As changes in market structure and new regulations transform the industry, DTCC is proactively engaged to meet the complex operational challenges of an ever-evolving marketplace.
