International calls. International compliance.

It's no secret that mobility has become a key concern for IT teams in recent years. Making sure employees can stay productive on the move is essential to business success. As demand for mobile working on a truly global basis continues to grow, companies must also ensure they address needs for security, governance and compliance.

Keep your communications on the record

Truphone Mobile Recording offers organizations the ability to record, encrypt and store calls using existing IT infrastructures. Truphone Mobile Recording is device and system agnostic. That means you can comply with obligations under the Dodd-Frank Act in the US and the FCA regulations in the UK – all without having to overhaul your IT setup. And because it's powered by Truphone's global mobile network, Truphone Mobile Recording customers enjoy clearer calls, faster downloads and lower rates in over 200 countries around the world.

Global compliance

With an average of 20% of business conversations taking place when roaming, businesses will benefit from an international recording solution that treats roaming calls in the same way as domestic calls. Unlike other recording solutions, Truphone Mobile Recording seamlessly captures all voice and SMS traffic in – and between – countries. And our patented forking technology also ensures that calls are recorded, without any impact on call quality. That means companies can record their conversations while making sure that employees can still work effectively on the move.

Tried and tested

Trusted by the best, Truphone Mobile Recording is used by five of the largest investment banks, together with customers ranging from law firms to insurance companies. Built to cope with growing international demand, Truphone Mobile Recording records an average of 250,000 calls and 200,000 texts a month. It's helping IT teams deliver enterprise-class mobility using existing infrastructures, while ensuring employees can stay in touch on any phone on the move. Everybody wins.

International collaboration

Truphone's global mobile network makes sure business abroad is business as usual. Users can talk, text, email and download for less in over 200 countries. And in the Truphone Zone, which includes the US, UK, Australia, Hong Kong, Netherlands, Germany, Poland and Spain, employees can take advantage of excellent call quality at local rates. A number of customers have cut their phone bills in half by making the switch.
